Plain Surface Finish and Additional Coat

18 - Wara / Riverside Straw

Durable water-repellent additional coat

Durable Water Repellent (DWR) finish is a coating can be added to any premium parchment to make them water-resistant. It is not only a protection from water, oils, or environmental pollutants but also maintaining the breathable nature of premium parchment. DWR is often used in conjunction with waterproof breathable fabrics such as Gore-Tex.

UL approval

Our WahShi™ is possible to have UL approval rate with styrene backing for lighting fixtures. Styrene is translucent, strong and heat-resistant forms and uses for the backing of washi-covered shade for commercial projects. Photo shows that applied onto our premium washi products.

ClassA Fire Retardant

Class A Fire Retardant is available with US approved clear coat. This varnish can be applied by brush, roller or spray. It protects against moisture, chemicals, UV rays and physical abuse, while maintaining the Class A fire protection.

Heavy Duty Surface Finish

Laminated Glass Panel & Resin Panel

WahShi™ architectural laminated glass is a combination of two glass sheets with washi and one interlayer of plastic (PVB). It is used for both security and decorative applications and marriage of ancient technique and modern technology.

Mechanically bound Acrylic or Glass

By sandwiched between two glass or resin panels, WahShi™ sustains its beauty while being used for interior materials such as illuminated wall, doors, and divider.
